

Foxes

Foxes are about the size of a large cat. They weigh around 15 pounds.

Foxes can have grey, red, or brown fur, and long bushy tails.

Foxes like to eat meat and will eat fruits too. They eat things like birds, rabbits, insects, and berries.

They have to stay away from fierce animals like coyotes, and wolves.

Foxes live in many places like forests, mountains, and deserts.

Their home is called a "den".

They can also live in cities, and may sleep in sheds or under decks.
